TIMETABLES

Many of the program's tutorials are offered after school hours and early applicants will be given priority for these timeslots. If your preferred subject conflicts with your school timetable, speak to your school before applying. The full list of subjects, lectures and tutorial times will be available on the Student for a Semester Program website prior to the start of each semester.

STUDENT ORIENTATION AND SUPPORT

Students completing the program will receive guidance from their Academic Advisor, support from the Program Coordinator and access to the many student services available at Bond. All participants must attend the Student for a Semester orientation, which takes place from 3pm to 5pm on the Friday of Orientation Week.

COSTS

The 2013 program fee for a Student for a Semester subject is $238. Students may also need to purchase a textbook, and other relevant study materials.

JADE MAGEE SHARES HER STUDENT FOR A SEMESTER EXPERIENCE

Keeping on top of her school work, coping with university classes and completing her Certificate III in Hospitality was not as easy task, but Jade Magee of King's Christian College enjoyed the Student for a Semester Program so much, she came back for a second semester.

"Being a Student for a Semester at Bond University was so rewarding for me. I learnt how to be more efficient in my studies and to seek help if I needed it. My tutor was great and was always willing to stay after class to answer my questions. Bond offers a lot of support and it's a really good idea to take advantage of it while you're there.

It was such a great experience and I would highly recommend it to anyone. Not only will you get to use all of the amazing facilities at Bond, but you'll get a significant head start because it will help you figure out how university works and if it's right for you.

Make sure you give it your best and try to get as much out of the semester as you can. You won't regret it, and like me, you'll feel incredibly well prepared for university."
